

Doubt Electrol To Open on 24th

It appeared likely today that Electrol Inc., which closed its doors to its employees at the end of work Friday afternoon, would not be open for production on Monday morning.

The company was unable to meet its payroll Friday.

Workers Will Report

However, the president of the union local representing some 150 plant employees effected by the company order, said the union employees would report for work Monday morning, because the union has not received "official" notification that the plant was closed.

Robert C. Myers, president of Local 1562, International Association of Machinists, said he was notified by company management at 4:30 p. m. Friday that the company was unable to meet the payroll and that it was necessary to stop operations.

However, Myers told The Freeman today, "We're going to report on Monday because we haven't been officially notified that the plant is closed."

Myers said he was told Friday by William S. Gillmor, Electrol vice president, that the firm's payroll money wasn't released to the company by a New York City bank where it is kept.

The Electrol firm, a subsidiary of the Avien Corporation of Woodside, L. I., manufactures hydraulic equipment.

Official Not Available

Gillmor was not available for comment.

No reason was given as to why the payroll money wasn't released by the New York bank, but it had been rumored for some time that Avien was interested in selling the Kingston plant to other interests.

Meanwhile, the main entrance gate at the company's plant at 85 Grand Street was closed today and a sign was posted indicating that the plant was "officially closed" until further notice.

It was reported that under state law, employees of a plant which has been unable to meet a payroll, may not work another payroll period until the current payroll is met.

Myers said that a small work force of several Electrol employees scheduled to work Friday night, was sent home.

However, he said, the union employees were instructed to report for work Monday morning.

No Labor Dispute

"If our time card is in the rack, we will know we are working," he said.

Myers stressed that there was no labor dispute involved. He said, "There is no labor trouble between Local 1562 and the Electrol Corp."

Brezhnev Looms As Logical Man To Succeed Nik

MOSCOW (AP)—Leonid Brezhnev, the 57-year-old figurehead president of the Soviet Union, moved into the limelight today as a possible heir apparent to Premier Khrushchev.

Brezhnev and Ukrainian party boss Nikolai Podgorniy were elected Friday to the party Secretariat, making the bushy-browed president the only Soviet leader besides Khrushchev to hold key party and government posts.

Brezhnev's elevation to the higher brackets of the party leadership, where the real power lies, had been forecast since First Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov was hospitalized two months ago with a blood clot on the brain.

'Rebel' Harris Killed In Crash at Speedway

Daniel D. (Rebel) Harris, 30, of 9 Brett Place, Poughkeepsie, was fatally injured Friday night after being thrown from his racing car in the first lap of the feature stock car race at Ontario Speedway, Olive Bridge.

He died less than an hour later at Kingston Hospital.

Known throughout the Hudson Valley as one of the best stock car drivers in the state, Harris was one of 24 contestants in the 25-lap feature. Before the first lap had been raced, his car overturned. He was thrown from the vehicle and landed in the center of the track, where two cars ran over him.

Rushed to Kingston Hospital by the Hudson Valley Ambulance Service, Harris was pronounced dead at 11:35 p. m. An autopsy as to the cause of death will be performed today.

A native of South Carolina,

Harris came to this area about four years ago. He had been racing for the past 12 years and was in several national events.

Harris had been a consistent winner at Rhinebeck, Arlington and Lebanon Valley Speedways, in addition to Ontario. He was second last week in the feature at Lebanon.

According to Kingston State Police, Harris was driving a Ford in the feature event last night. Only seconds after the start of the race, his vehicle hit the wheel of another car. He then turned over and was thrown to the oval.

A track official said that Harris was wearing a seat belt and crash helmet when the accident occurred. The belt and helmet were in the stock car when it was removed from the track.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Neri informed the Freeman he was

Coronation To Be Held On June 30

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI, in his first message to the world pledged today to continue the Vatican Ecumenical Council and strive for international peace.

The new Pope, clearly setting out on the path traced by Pope John XXIII, also promised to work for Christian unity and go ahead with the Canon Law revision that John started.

Pope Paul completed the outline of his program with the assurance he would support the policies of social justice outlined by his predecessors.

The prepared message in Latin, less than 24 hours after his election as 262nd supreme pontiff of the world's half billion Roman Catholics, was in effect a keynote speech.

The pontiff spoke as jubilant Catholics made ready for his coronation June 30 in Christendom's most brilliant ceremony. The papal speech was broadcast from the Sistine Chapel where the Sacred College of Cardinals Friday elected Giovanni Battista Montini, 65-year-old archbishop of Milan, as the new Pope.

No Date for Council

"The pre-eminent part of our pontificate will be occupied with the continuation of the Second Vatican Ecumenical Council, on which the eyes of all men of goodwill are focused," Pope Paul said.

"This will be the principal work, for which we intend to devote all the energies which the Lord gave us so that the Catholic Church... can attract all men to it."

Pope Paul did not say when he would reconvene the Council. It was believed unlikely that the assembly would meet Sept. 8, as Pope John had scheduled.

Considerable preparatory work must be done, and this was suspended on Pope John's death June 3.

The 65-year-old Pope had often spoken with views similar to Pope John's.

The Pope spoke after each of the cardinals advanced one by one to his papal throne before the altar in the Sistine Chapel. They wore their great capes with long, flowing trains.

Steps to Meet Aged Cardinal

Pope Paul wore his white bishop's miter and a gold-embroidered stole. Each cardinal knelt before the Pope and kissed the ring on his right hand.

When 87-year-old Maurilio Cardinal Fossati of Turin advanced, Pope Paul arose from his throne and, smiling, stepped down two steps, to meet the aged cardinal. They embraced on both cheeks.

Bridge-28 Link Is To Open on July 3

ALBANY—J. Burch McMoran, State Superintendent of Public Works, announced Friday that the 4.32-mile northern portion of the Kingston Bypass, between the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge approach (Route 9W) and Route 28 will be opened to traffic the morning of July 3.

This will be followed on August 1 by the opening of the southern section of the bypass extending from Route 28 southwesterly 5.04 miles to Route 209 just north of the Marletown Town line.

No Ceremony Planned

The two projects were constructed by John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie under contracts totaling nearly $10 million. No ceremony is planned in connection with either opening.

The contract for the northerly section totaled $6,019,321 for the four and one-third miles of four-lane divided, limited-access highway and 5.07 miles of access roads. The cement concrete highway crosses over Sawkill Road, the New York State Thruway and Esopus Creek, and connects via interchanges with Route 9W, Sawkill Road and Neighborhood Road.

Construction of the project was begun in September 1960.

The southerly section has been constructed as a two-lane cement concrete highway, with provision for future development as a four-lane divided route. Access roads totaling 1.73 miles have been built as part of the project.

Includes Interchange

This portion also includes an interchange with Route 28 just west of Kingston, plus the reconstruction of a short segment of Route 28 at the west of the interchange as a four-lane divided highway.

vided highway on new location.

Cost of the southerly section is $3,832,243. Bids were received by the Department in March 1961 and the work began the following month.

The new bypass provides a through, express route for traffic between the Catskill Mountain area west of Kingston and points on the east side of the Hudson River.

It will relieve Kingston streets of the burden of through traffic, while providing improved access to the city for vehicles headed into Kingston.

The projects were constructed under the jurisdiction of the State Department of Public Works' District 8 Office at Poughkeepsie and District Engineer M. Nicholas Sinacori.

Video Will Play Big Role During JFK Europe Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy sets out tonight on a 10-day tour of Europe that may derive its greatest significance from his multiple appearances in European television screens.

Kennedy's voice and image—carrying a personal message of friendship from America—will be brought within range of more than 25 million television receivers in at least 12 western European countries.

To Telecast Berlin Visit

The most dramatic moment is expected Wednesday when much of Europe will see a seven-hour, step-by-step telecast of Kennedy's motor tour through Communist-encircled Berlin.

Television audiences will see the President mount a special platform at the Checkpoint Charlie border crossing to peer over the 22-month-old Berlin wall.

Parts of the Berlin program will be beamed live to the United States via both the Telstar and Relay satellites.

Kennedy plans to begin his four-country journey at 9:30 p. m. EDT tonight, taking off by jet transport from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., after spending much of the day with his family at Camp David, Md.

West Germany will be the first stop, followed—in order—by Ireland, England, Italy and Vatican City. The Vatican was placed on the itinerary Friday so Kennedy can meet with Pope Paul VI, the new leader of the President's Roman Catholic faith.

May Hold Key

Konrad Adenauer, West Germany's soon-to-retire chancellor, will welcome Kennedy to that country at Wahn Airport Sunday morning.

The arrival ceremony will mark the start of the most extensive television coverage ever given an American president in Europe.

Although television's role in the Kennedy trip has been largely overlooked, it could hold the key to success or failure of the president's mission.

Because there is nothing Kennedy wants to negotiate while in Europe, he lays great stress on the opportunity to talk directly to the people of Europe as spokesman for American policy.

GOP Rules Out CR Session

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Republican legislative leaders claim that New York State's civil rights laws are the finest in the nation and that a special session of the Legislature to deal with them would be meaningless.

Democrats have been urging Gov. Rockefeller to call a special session to extend civil rights measures.

Finest in U. S.: Mahoney

New York has the finest set of statutes in the nation on civil liberties," Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney said Friday at a news conference.

"We don't need a special session. We are far ahead of everyone else," Mahoney said.

Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino said the Democrats had not specified "one single area" for action and their proposal was meaningless.

New York is ahead of the federal government in assuring equality in housing, education and job opportunities, the speaker asserted.

No Comment on Demand

Gov. Rockefeller, who has declined to comment on the Democrats' demand for a special session, returned to Albany Friday after a four-hour visit to Oswego and met with Mahoney and Carlino. They conferred for two hours on several topics, however, a spokesman said, no decisions were reached.

The spokesman said they discussed next year's legislative program and brought themselves up to date on various matters.

Muscovites Pack Red Square for Boy-Girl Welcome

MOSCOW (AP)—Elated Muscovites swarmed into Red Square today despite steady rain to give the Soviet Union's boy-girl space team a red carpet welcome.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said a million flowers were flown in from southern parts of the Soviet Union and Bulgaria to greet the arrival in Moscow of cosmonauts Valentina Tereshkova and Valery Bykovsky. It was the largest collection of flowers since 600,000 were assembled to hail cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin in April 1961.

Millions Ready Welcome

The cosmonauts were scheduled to appear with Premier Khrushchev atop Lenin's tomb.

Tass said millions were set to welcome the cosmonauts, including participants in the coming World Congress of Women representing 100 nations.

Valentina, the world's first space woman, completed 48 orbits before returning to earth Wednesday, more than doubling the American record of 22 set by L. Cooper Jr. last month.

Kennedy CR Effort May Win '64 Votes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's civil rights recommendations may win him enough Negro votes in the North in 1964 to more than offset the support he appears to be jettisoning in the South.

While Kennedy and his Democratic lieutenants have sounded trumpet calls for bipartisan backing, the President's action in asking Congress for a far-reaching program has put Republicans over a political barrel.

Outcome in Doubt

The outcome, of course, is uncertain. But if Congress passes any substantial segment of the Kennedy program, the voters in the North and the South are likely to label the end result as a Kennedy measure.

The fact that GOP votes might have been crucial for the bill's passage might get scant attention in the acclaim for a presidential victory in this field.

On the contrary, if no bill is passed, the outcome probably will be charged—or credited—to the viewpoint dictates—to the Republican minorities of the two houses. They would be accused—or praised—for having contributed the margin for the program's defeat.

Expect GOP Victory

Most observers feel Republicans will make additional inroads in the South next year, benefitting from the President's quest for enforced desegregation of privately owned business firms serving the public and his request for new weapons to prod for school integration.

Republican vote gains seem to be indicated if the GOP picks a presidential nominee who is regarded in Dixie as even slightly less pro-civil rights than the Democratic President.

Some GOP conservatives think they could win the presidency for Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., by sweeping the South and most states west of the Mississippi.

But eastern Republicans, many of them strong civil rights advocates, don't agree with that theory. They believe the only way to defeat Kennedy's certain bid for re-election is to carry some of the more populous states.

Realtors Support Rigby, State Park

Members of the Ulster County Board of Realtors at the monthly meeting this week at Governor Clinton Hotel adopted two resolutions of interest to local people.

One was that the board of supervisors reconsider the reappointment of Harry Rigby Jr., to the board of trustees of the Community College and the other endorsing the establishment of a State Park in the Wittenberg Valley.

Recently, Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson announced that there was a possibility of the state developing a public park in the Wittenberg Valley if sufficient interest should be shown locally signifying the need for such a park. Several organiza-

The tickets, which sold for $1 each, were then spread into Watertown, Corning, Newburgh and Oswego and surrounding areas.

Gov. Rockefeller praised the State Police "for conducting one of the most significant statewide crackdowns on syndicated gambling in recent state history."

Net Spreading In Lottery Deal

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Fifteen of the 19 key figures arrested in a statewide crackdown on a $2-million-a-year gambling syndicate were free today on bail totalling $122,500.

Two hundred state troopers swooped into 19 Upstate New York communities Friday and arrested about 60 men.

Sought Out of State

Several other important operatives in the lottery syndicate, which has its headquarters in Utica, were being sought outside the state, it was learned.

The 19 men described as "top level" operatives were arrested on a felony charge of contriving a lottery. The others arrested were charged with misdemeanors.

Ten of the 19 were released Friday night in Utica on bail of $10,000 each and four on bail of $5,000 each.

Bail was refused to one top figure because of a previous conviction.

The arraignments of two others were pending.

Arrested at Home

Another key figure was released on $2,500 bail in Pittsburgh, where he was arrested by Pennsylvania State Police.

Those arraigned all pleaded innocent.

Troopers said the 19 top men were arrested at their homes.

The chief target of the four-hour raid that began at 6 a. m. was a printing press found in Yorkville, a suburb of Utica.

State Police said the press was used to print 100,000 lottery tickets the syndicate distributed weekly to its local agents around the state.

The press was the last major piece in a puzzle State Police began putting together about 6 months ago.

Process Aerial Photos on Road Job to Campsite

Aerial photographs are reportedly being processed in a long range State Highway Department program proposed to re-route or reconstruct the mountain road (Route 23A) between Palenville and Tannersville.

The aerial photo maps are expected to be ready in August when department engineers and surveyors will determine the realignment of the curvy, steep mountain road through Haines Falls.

Assemblyman Clarence D. Lane of Greene County reported Frank Fuller, district engineer, has indicated that re-routing reconstruction of the highway will be an expensive project. He said viaducts and bridges will have to be constructed in an attempt to level and straighten the highway. When completed the new highway will decrease the hazards of the long mountain climb and improve travel to the mountaintop resorts and the North Lake Camp Site area.

Now under investigation is the possibility that an acreage pool is available for a specified number of acres of "forever wild" lands required for the realignment.

Assemblyman Lane said that

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Another declaration of independence and freedom is contained in one of our cherished national hymns, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

It was written by Samuel Francis Smith, a student at Andover Theological Seminary to a piece of German music, and was first sung at a children's celebration in the Parks Street Church in Boston, on July 4, 1832.

Although Dr. Smith had an influential and productive career as a clergyman, writer, editor of the Christian Review and editorial secretary of the American Baptist Missionary Union, his fame rests on this enduring poem.

His faith, his love of God and country inspired the immortal words that the authors of the Declaration of Independence would have sung as we do today:

"Our fathers' God, to Thee,
Author of Liberty,
To Thee we sing;
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light,
Protect us by thy might,
Great God, our King."

Religion Can Use Madison Avenue Approach: Thesis

By MARIE PRICE

NEW YORK (AP)—Are public relations techniques suitable for church use?

A 385-page "yes" answer has been written by the Rev. Thomas J. M. Burke, S.J., director of public relations for Jesuit Missions, in a doctoral dissertation said to be the first one on public relations for religious institutions.

"All religious groups, at every level of American society, can and should use organized public relations techniques to remove unnecessary conflict and misunderstanding among themselves and between religious groups and society at large," says Father Burke.

He was awarded a Ph. D. degree June 5 from New York University.

Useful to All Creeds

In his thesis, Father Burke outlines how all creeds can utilize the elements of planning and continued direction that are essential to a successful public relations campaign.

His view is this: The basis of public relations is to persuade people. Religious groups aim at persuading people of an ethical truth they think is usable.

So, using techniques highly developed by professional public relations men can enable churches to promote religious and social values in society, communicate better with their own people, and further cooperation among denominations.

If religious values are to have the place they should have in people's lives, he says, "public relations will have to be utilized lest the field be left only to values being promoted by business and government."

There is nothing inherently wrong with business and government values, Father Burke believes, but they are limited. "And in every community where the impact of religious values is lost, the community as a whole loses," he says.

Training, Work For Youth Gets Police Backing

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy today issued an appeal to the people of the city to lend their support to President Kennedy's Youth Employment and Conservation Bill, sponsored by Senator Hubert Humphrey, passed by the Senate, and expected to go to the House of Representatives in the near future.

"Common sense and justice," said the chief, "compel establishment of this program, which will give many thousands of unemployed young persons a chance to find employment, to be paid for their services, and to acquire skills and work experience that will give them a solid start in their working lives."

Murphy's View

Provisions in the legislation, he noted, "provide a practical means of attacking the high school drop-out problem, and the juvenile delinquency associated with that problem." He explained:

"Young men and women no longer in school constitute already 18 per cent of our total unemployment, although they comprise only seven per cent of the labor force. These figures reflect a serious national situation. Idle youth on our city streets create a host of problems.

"During the 1960's an estimated 7½ million youths will enter the job market with less than a high school education. Unless something is done to help to equip them to live in a skilled economy, they will pile up helplessly against the rising barriers to unskilled labor.

Need For Program

"In the last decade, juvenile delinquency cases brought before the courts have more than doubled, and arrests of youth increased 86 per cent until they numbered almost one million arrests a year in 1960—15 per cent of all arrests.

"Favorable House action on the Youth Employment and Conservation Bill will provide work and training for youths from the age of 16 through 21.

Members of the Youth Conservation Corps will receive $90 a month in wages. They will be given lodging, board, work clothes, tools and equipment, medical and other necessities. The corpsmen will be under the direct supervision of adults conservationists, foresters, rangers and others. They will work on, and receive training in, various jobs and projects involving general areas as erosion, stream control, reforestation, and construction of outdoor recreation and camp facilities.

Chance For Study

"In addition, the corpsmen will be given technical training and educational skills through classroom periods after work hours.

"The need for this new youth program is evident. It was designed to reduce unemployment and train more young workers who would otherwise be idle. They must be given a chance to work before they may take to crime instead."

Scranton Makes Public Pitch on Civil Service

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Scranton publicly acknowledged Thursday that his civil service bill is in trouble in the legislature as he asked some 100 business and civic leaders for their assistance in getting the measure passed.

"We have a great many people in the legislature who are not interested in this bill," Scranton said in a conference with the group in his office reception room.

Rep. Alan D. Williams Jr., R-Bucks, a floor leader of the bill, told newsmen after the session that about 80 per cent of the GOP 109-man delegation is opposed to the measure. It takes 106 votes to pass a bill.

The public pitch for outside support lent credence to the rumors circulating on Capitol Hill that influential members of the House want to strip down the bill before considering it for a vote.

The bill, which has been locked up in the state government committee since February, would place between 50,000 to 55,000 of the 80,000 state employees under uniform civil service coverage.

Some 32,000 now are covered by civil service, including 12,000 by executive order, which can be rescinded at the whim of the governor—any governor.

The consistory of the Reformed Church will meet Tuesday 8 p. m. in the consistory room of the church.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 22, 1963

SHOE ON OTHER FOOT

The late Robert A. Taft and Sen. Barry Goldwater are often mentioned in the same breath as the outstanding Republican conservative heroes of the past 25 years.

It is interesting, therefore, to compare their respective party positions with regard to presidential nomination prospects.

Taft, of course, began immediately after his re-election to the Senate in 1950 to organize for a 1962 nomination bid. He won early and widespread professional political support across the country.

This later stood him in good stead when he tangled with Dwight Eisenhower in a tough pre-convention struggle for delegates. Taft held enough strength to corral 500 or the needed 604 delegate votes on the only convention ballot.

Only toward the last days of the battle did numerous delegates wedded to Taft fall away from him, accepting grudgingly the argument that he could not win the election because of his conservative views.

With Goldwater at this moment the circumstances are quite different. To begin with, he is not actively seeking support at this stage. But even if he were, it would not be the same.

Curiously, Goldwater is far more warmly embraced as a man than the somewhat aloof Taft was. But there is much more wariness about Goldwater among the professionals.

Many, particularly in large industrial states, start with a big question mark about his ability to win. They see him as having monumental difficulty in the big urban centers.

So, though they love him as they have never loved any prospective candidate in the last three decades, they hang back from giving him their open backing. They would delight to have him if they thought he could make it. But their doubts are deep.

Those who opposed Taft fought a long, hard fight to persuade many professionals that Taft was not a winner.

In 1963 the shoe is on the other foot. Those who want Goldwater have a similar difficult fight to persuade similar professionals that Goldwater can win.

BAKE A HAPPINESS CAKE

In the old days, one of the traditional gifts for the June bride from female friends and relatives was a cherished recipe. That may be a little out-of-date in this day of frozen dinners and warm-'n-serve meals.

But here's one sentimental recipe for happiness that bears passing along, with thanks to Libby, McNeill and Libby:

Combine:

- 1 heaping portion of true love
- 1 heaping cup of perfect trust and confidence
- 1 heaping cup of tenderness (the most tender available)
- 1 heaping cup of good humor (a little extra won't hurt)
- 1 tablespoon of good spirits (the more spirited the better)

Blend with:

- 1 heaping cup of unselfishness
- A dash of interest in all HE does

Add:

- 1 good helping of work—to avoid this would spoil the flavor
- Mix all these ingredients with a pint of sympathy and understanding combined. Flavor with loving companionship. Bake well all your life. Frost with kisses, fond hopes and tender words. This cake keeps well and should be served often.

CONSIDERATE ROBBER

One of those recurrent figures in literature, from Robin Hood's time to the present, is the robber who treats his victims with studied kindness while relieving them of their worldly goods. A new twist was given to this gambit the other day, not in a story but in real life.

The incident took place in rural Minnesota. A young man and his lady friend, checking on reports of vandalism at an abandoned farm owned by the youth's

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The U. S. Supreme Court, with Justice Stewart as the lone dissenter, has ruled that recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools—even in classes that allow individuals to absent themselves from a devotional period—is unconstitutional.

Well, that presumably settles it, for this particular generation of Supreme Court justices at least. But, in the perhaps not so distant future, it is quite possible that the issue will be revived by parents who consider that their children are being denied the protection of the Ninth and Tenth amendments to the Constitution, which originally put determination of the content of education among the rights reserved to the separate states, or to the citizens thereof.

The issue will never die for the simple reason that the First Amendment, which says that "Congress shall pass no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof," is completely silent on the subject of voluntary prayers in public schools supported by the various State and municipal governments. Moreover, there is abundant evidence that Thomas Jefferson, who was the moving spirit behind the adoption of the First Amendment, had no discernible intention of telling local communities whether they should or should not permit prayers or religious instruction in their schools.

A professor at the University of Dubuque Theological Seminary, Robert M. Healey, recently combed over the writings of Thomas Jefferson on the subject of religion in public education for his Ph.D. dissertation. He struck pay dirt in Jefferson's proposals for building a tax-supported system of grammar school and college education for the state of Virginia. Jefferson, before there was any University of Virginia in his home town of Charlottesville, hoped to bring the College of William and Mary under state control. Abhorring a doctrinaire approach to religion, he regarded the existing professors of divinity at William and Mary as expendable, but at the same time he advocated that the college send missionaries to the Indian tribes to "instruct them in the principles of Christianity." Thus Jefferson indicated that he believed the states, and the educators in the states, should retain the power and the right to use public funds to teach a broadly conceived religion as they chose to whom they chose. What he was concerned with was keeping a single sect from imposing a theology on students.

When Jefferson outlined a curriculum for the University of Virginia, he included a provision for a "professor of ethics" who would be entrusted with presenting "the proofs of the being of a God, the creator, preserver, and supreme ruler of the universe, the author of all the relations of morality, and of the laws and obligations these infer." This is further evidence that Jefferson did not interpret the First Amendment to outlaw the teaching of religion in schools supported by public funds. Since the "Father of the Constitution," James Madison, who conferred with Jefferson frequently, was particularly concerned with getting Jefferson's views accepted when the Bill of Rights was being formulated, it is a reasonable presumption that the men who wrote the First Amendment meant only what they explicitly said when they prohibited Congress from passing a federal law to "establish" a religion. How the voluntary recitation of the Lord's Prayer in State and city schools can be equated with the establishment of an official church by Congressional act is a semantic mystery.

The truth, as Professor Healey explains it after a prolonged immersion in Jefferson's writings, is that Jefferson regarded morality and religion as inseparable. "True religion," so Jefferson wrote to John Adams in 1817, "is morality . . . the sublime doctrines of philanthropism and deism taught us by Jesus of Nazareth, in which we all agree, constitute one religion." Carrying on from such precepts, Jefferson advocated developing the moral sense in school. If he equated the moral sense with the religious sense, and if he believed that Jesus's "doctrines of philanthropism" were a matter of common acceptance, he could hardly have been against the voluntary school recitation of a prayer which refers to a non-denominational Father in a non-denominational Heaven and which asks only that we be given our daily bread while we are being forgiven our trespasses and protected from evil.

The Supreme Court has interpreted the First Amendment in the light of its own thought. It has not really tried to discover what the Founding Fathers had in mind when they wrote it. (Copyright, 1963, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The Mature Parent

Teaser Is Insecure One

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:
"Spiteful" is the only word to describe the way our son, 16, treats his younger sister. She is 13, shy and not so pretty as our youngest girl, who is her brother's favorite. He calls her "Junie" before his friends, and as she is very sensitive about her plumpness, she won't leave her room when he has visitors. Do you know of any way we can get him to treat her as affectionately as he does his baby sister?

ANSWER: You are repelled by his vindictive treatment of his younger sister, aren't you?

This feeling of revulsion from the jealous child's behavior is what makes it so hard for you to help him. It offends us so that we can't see that it springs from his insecurity. A doubt of his own value so pressing that he must make his sister appear equally worthless in the eyes of as many people as possible. We are so revolted by the jealous child's meanness that we just want it stopped. And we feel irritated by the suggestion that he, more often than his victim, is the child who needs our attention and sympathetic encouragement. As a result of this impatience in us, his self-doubt increases, driving him to increase his belittling treatment.

So, though you may not like it, any change you want in your son has to first take place in you.

I don't know how I can make him seem sympathetic to you. But I can assure you that at his age we are beset by all kinds of subsurface anxieties about our sexual attractiveness, our friends' opinions of us, how we can justify our parents' expectations of us, and our future place in the world. We may use envy of a younger child to express them.

Does this boy of yours have any clear plans for his life? Has he chosen the work he wants to do? Is he worried about college admission? Have you or his father ever discussed any of these subjects with him?

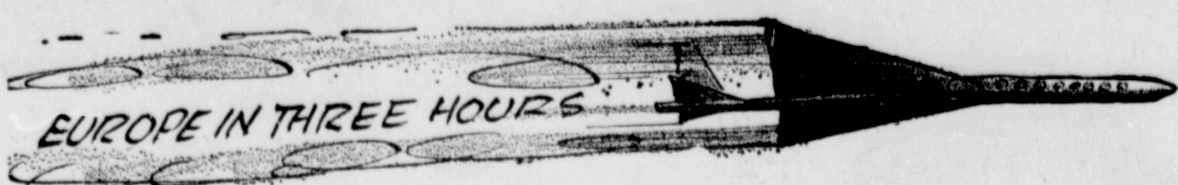

During World War II there was a German word one heard a lot about—"Ichbensraum"—room for life. Room for his worried life is an acute need of the adolescent child. If we don't make space for his anxieties by using his complaints and criticisms to persuade him to talk to us about them, they may express themselves in vindictive treatment of a younger child who seems spared the older child's bigger challenges.

Perhaps your boy is envious, not of his sister, but of his parents' sympathetic awareness of her. (All rights reserved, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

mother, fell into a robber's hands. He was about to leave them, securely bound, when it occurred to him that the pair would be the prey of swarming mosquitoes.

Enter kindly impulse. The robber produced a can of insect repellent and sprayed his immobile victims from head to foot. Whereupon he departed. Not even Robin Hood was more considerate than that.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Nervous over the reaction to New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's remarriage, one top backer tried recently to get the best he could out of the old applause meter when he introduced the governor's new wife, the former Margaretta Murphy.

State Republican Chairman Fred Young, addressing the party's annual fund-raising dinner in New York City told the assembled Republicans:

"Now I want to introduce two of the most charming, gracious and intelligent women this state has ever known—the former first lady, Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey, and the current first lady, Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller."

The applause was warm and long. But no one knew what part was meant for whom.

A BRITISH political leader visiting Washington says that he has to come to America once a year just to keep up on the new words in U. S. government officials' vocabularies.

Last year when he came the bureaucrats were all saying that they were having "dialogues" about controversial issues. What they meant was that they were having debates.

This year the fashionable word among the deep thinkers is that they are writing "scenarios" on how to handle specific situations. What they mean is plans.

There's a difference between American and British politicians and diplomats on what the word "consultation" means. To the Americans, it means just "conversation." The Britishers want it to mean also, "participation."

WHEN TEAMSTERS wives came to town to picket the White House, a snoop who came by saw no pickets so he asked the White House guard where they were. Replied the guard: "Oh, they're inside touring the White House first."

SEN. NORRIS COTTON, R-N.H., says the $10 million government aquarium which is to be built in Washington reminds him of the magnificent palace built by Frederick the Great of Prussia. At the very moment his enemies were arrayed against him and he was squeezing the last cent from his serfs to maintain his armies, with unconscious irony he named it "sans souci" meaning "without worry." Says Sen. Cotton—"this may be a fitting epitaph for the 88th congress."

TRYING TO MAKE sense out of agricultural policies has proved to be a completely frustrating business to both American and European negotiators on tariff and trade. But one French economist has finally reduced the situation to utter absurdity by four hypothetical theorems:

1. Anything which is nonsense in any other sector is the height of sophistication as regards agriculture.
2. Every farmer has the right to produce as much of everything that is not needed as he pleases.
3. As soon as he produces more than is needed, raise the prices above the levels that people can afford to pay.
4. Give aid to the developing countries so that they can produce more of everything that is not needed for sale at prices that are higher than can be paid in a free world market.

FRANKLIN R. ROOSEVELT Jr., newly appointed under secretary of commerce told the old Senate War Investigating Committee's 22nd anniversary dinner guests that he was in the University of Virginia Law School when his father died and Senator Truman became president. "I hope Senator Byrd is here to hear that," observed FDR Jr. From President Truman, seated at his side, came the stage whisper in an unmistakable voice, "I hope he isn't."

VIRGINIA SEN. Harry F. Byrd had his own comments about President Truman and others at the birthday party given in his honor by the National Press Club. "I've spoken to all the presidents during the 30 years I've been in the Senate," he said, "and they've spoken with me. But I didn't agree with any of them."

"I WISH I COULD cut the budget as easily as I can cut this cake," observed Byrd at this birthday celebration.

Following his usual custom, Byrd climbed a mountain near his Berryville, Va., home on his 76th birthday. But his old dog Candy made it only half way up and had to be carried to the top. When he was asked if he would trade Candy for Checkers he replied, "I'm going to stick by Candy. If anything happens to her, I'll get another just like her."

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

The other day I noticed a yellow and bright red ice-wagon in front of the Binnewater Lake Ice Co. place on South Pine Street. It has large yellow wooden wheels and built for two horses. On it is printed, "Build-er J. M. Mayer, 1910 — Binnewater Lake Ice Co. Winter fruit for Summer. Phone 237—Office 26 So. Pine St."

In the 1892 Kingston City Directory I see John M. Mayer is listed as a manufacturer of carriages, wagons and trucks and was established in 1860. Special attention was given to the Mayer buckboard wagons. He was then at 26-28 Mill Street in Rondout. In later years he is listed at 35 Mill St.

I spoke to the gentleman in the office and he told me they always had red ice wagons, and this is one of the original wagons. It is in mint condition, and I can see newly painted. He told me his brother-in-law, Mr. Shultis, who is in his early 80's could tell me more about the early ice business.

I remember seeing a fire hose wagon down on Ferry Street some years ago. I am wondering if an exhibition of such items at our Municipal Auditorium, including permits to make here, would not bring visitors to our fair city. We have roads from all over going right past our city. It could include boat models, or anything old and handmade or manufactured. For backgrounds perhaps old handmade quilts could decorate the walls. At our antique shows usually small items are brought, or whatever can be placed in a station wagon. This could be a show of large items. Anyway it is just a thought I had on seeing this very interesting red and yellow ice wagon on South Pine Street, in Kingston.

There was some talk recently about the wampum belt loaned from the county clerk's office. I just spoke to Mrs. Terwilliger, custodian of the Senate House Museum, and she told me, it is on display in the museum, in other words back home in Kingston. Those who visit the Senate House grounds, remember there are two buildings, the original old Senate House, and the Senate House Museum, so visit them both. While speaking to Mrs. Terwilliger, over the phone I heard very pleasant chimes, and she told me, it is from a French clock, in the Governor's Room, made in 1642, some 321 years old. Mrs. Terwilliger has been employed in the Museum some 24 years. She told me the clock was only cleaned and oiled twice during that time, and keeps perfect time, with this most modern world of ours, so see this clock also.

I have a small book by Alphonso T. Clearwater, first historian of the City of Kingston. This booklet is dated Sept. 12, 1929. The following he writes about the famous wampum belt, which used to be at the county clerk's office.

Back on May 16, 1664, when a treaty of peace was signed at Fort Amsterdam, and ratified by the delivery of a fine, costly and symbolic belt of wampum, that confirmed to the native Indians the title to the land upon which Kingston is situated, but all those lands within the ranges of the Catskills and Shawangunk Mountains, and the great grain and grazing meadows of the valleys of the Esopus, the Wallkill and the Rondout. This beautiful and priceless wampum mummiment of our title still is preserved in the office of the County Clerk of the County. Three times it has been my fortune to rescue it from the asportive fingers of unscrupulous relic hunters." City Historian A. T. Clearwater, LLD wrote in 1929.

Veterans Rights and Benefits Listed

By Charles L. Culver, State Veteran Counselor, NYS Division of Veterans Affairs, and John B. Tyler, Director, Ulster County Veterans Agency, 32 Main Street, Kingston, Office Hours, Monday through Friday, 9 to 5. Phone FE8-1111.

Legislation—Public Law 88-20 approved May 15, 1963, effective July 1, 1963, authorizes the payment of additional compensation in the amount of $47 per month to veteran who has a service incurred disability of deafness of both ears, with absence of air and bone conduction. Under the current Schedule for Rating Disabilities, total deafness is ratable at 80 per cent disabling which results in compensation for war time cases of $170 per month. Under this new law a veteran who suffers from total deafness will receive an additional $47 a month or a total of $217 monthly.

Public Law 80-22 approved May 15, 1963, effective July 1, 1963, authorizes the payment of additional compensation of $47 per month to a veteran who has a service incurred disability of complete organic aphonia (loss of speech). The current Schedule for Rating Disabilities provides that complete organic aphonia (loss of speech) with constant inability to communicate by speech will be rated as totally disabling with compensation payable for war time cases in the amount of $250 a month. This law will add an additional $47 a month for these cases.

Benefits—Any person entitled to pension, compensation or dependency and indemnity compensation under any of the laws administered by the VA may renounce his right to that benefit. The renouncement should be in writing over the person's signature. Upon receipt of such renouncement, payment of such benefits and the right thereto will be terminated, and such person will be denied any and all rights thereto for such filing.

A renouncement, however, will not preclude a person from filing a new application for pension, compensation or dependency and indemnity compensation at any future date. Such new application will be treated as an original application, and no payments will be made thereon for any period before the date of such new application is received.

The renouncement of dependency and indemnity compensation by a widow does not serve to vest title to this benefit in children under the age of 18 years to increase the rate payable to a child or children over the age of 18 years.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to Culver or Tyler at their office at 32 Main Street.

Youths Indicted On Drug Traffic Charge at Cornell

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Two youths were under indictment today on narcotic charges stemming from a grand jury investigation of marijuana traffic at Cornell University.

John Diebold, 19, of Nyack, and Richard Weiner, also 19, of The Bronx, were indicted Friday by a Tompkins County grand jury. Weiner was charged with offering to sell, give, barter or exchange narcotics. Diebold, a former Cornell student, also was charged with conspiracy and possession of narcotics.

No trial date has been set. Police said they found more than an ounce of marijuana in Diebold's possession when they arrested him here Memorial Day. Weiner, arrested in New York City where he is employed in a print shop, allegedly instructed eight Cornell students, including two coeds, in the smoking of marijuana.

The two youths have been free in bail of $5,000 each. Eight Cornell students have been suspended as a result of the probe.

Capitol News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

STAYING ON: Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth has announced that Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, the atomic submarine pioneer, will be recalled to active duty immediately when he reaches the mandatory retirement age of 64 next winter.

There is little doubt that Rickover is willing to continue in his job as director of the nuclear power division of the Bureau of Ships, even though he suffered a heart attack about two years ago. Korth's announcement Friday said that while Rickover has earned a peaceful retirement, "I feel that the Navy and the country need his continued service so long as he is willing and able to contribute."

INTEGRATION: The 18 unions of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trade Department have unanimously adopted a four-point program aimed at ending racial discrimination in construction employment.

The program, adopted Friday, amounts to a reaffirmation of previously expressed policy. All the craft unions, which represent some 3.5 million workers, already have clauses in their constitution opposing discrimination.

DISSENT: No sooner did the House Appropriations Committee vote a $2 billion slash in the defense money bill than Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara lodged a sharp protest.

The armed forces will have to be cut by 40,000 because the committee reduced by $140 million to $13.2 billion the funds asked by the administration to support them, McNamara said Friday, four hours after the committee's recommendations were announced.

The Pentagon boss also complained that proposed reductions in procurement of Air Force tactical fighter planes "would deny us necessary tactical support for our combat-ready divisions."

The committee recommended a $47,022,200,000 defense appropriation—$2,922,038,000 less than President Kennedy asked—for the government year beginning July 1, saying this would give the United States "military superiority over any other power."

VIP COMING: Prime Minister Sir Robert Gordon Menzies of Australia will make an informal visit to Washington July 8-10 and confer with President Kennedy and State Department officials.

The prime minister will arrive in the United States July 2, the White House announced Friday, and on July 4 he will inaugurate a new series of Thomas Jefferson memorial orations on the grounds of Monticello, Jefferson's home near Charlottesville, Va.

In an interview with the government newspaper Izvestia Friday the two cosmonauts said they felt as healthy as they did before the tandem flight.

Both cosmonauts said they slept without dreams in their separate space capsules. Valentina jokingly added that one or twice she had to be awakened by radio.

Their space diet, Valentina said, included four kinds of meats, fruits, juices, and even real Moslem tap water. The cosmonauts had four meals a day.

In his spare time, Bykovsky said, he sang songs together with Valentina.

"I especially liked weightlessness," Bykovsky said. "It is especially pleasant when you disengage yourself from the harness and float around the cabin and see things floating around."

Valentina said there were no surprises in flight. "These are more perfect ships," she said.

President Calls New Parley on Racial Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy brings under one roof today 30 Negro and white civil rights spokesmen, some of them bitter rivals for leadership in the drive to smash racial barriers.

The White House session, bringing together some AFL-CIO officials as well as heads of organizations that have spearheaded demonstrations for Negro equality, will be Kennedy's fourth meeting this week in his effort to quiet and settle the turbulent integration scene.

Among those invited to meet with Kennedy, who leaves tonight on a 10-day trip to Europe, are Dr. Martin Luther King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; James Farmer, national secretary of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE); Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta, Ga., Constitution; and A. Pope to Continue Council in what is called "the kiss of peace."

The Sistine Choir sang a polyphonic hymn throughout.

The choir sang the traditional "Tu Es Petrus"—Thou Art Peter. The cardinals stood in a long line before the throne. Their 12-foot trains were of cardinals' purple, to which they returned after the violet required until a new Pope was elected.

Pope Looks Serene

Pope Paul looked serene. His hands were locked together between the approaches of the cardinals. To each he gave a smile and a few moments of private consideration. To the oldest cardinal he gave a longer time.

This was the third act of homage by the cardinals since Pope Paul was elected Friday at the third balloting session of the conclave.

The Pope sat on a throne once used by Pope Pius XI, who died in 1939. At his side was the Rt. Rev. Mons. Enrico Dante, papal master of ceremonies who has served four Popes in that capacity—Pius XI, Pius XII, John XXIII and now Pope Paul.

Promising to continue along the path of social justice traced by Pope John and other pontiffs, Pope Paul, speaking in Latin, noted this was a space age and said:

"The certain order of love demands of all men a more equal solution of social problems, demands aid and care for underdeveloped countries in which the level of life is not often worthy of human dignity; requires a voluntary study on a universal scale for the improvement of the conditions of life.

"The new epoch, which the conquests of space have opened to mankind, will be singularly blessed by the Lord if men know truly how to recognize each other as brothers rather than competitors, and build a world order in saintly fear of God, in respect of his laws, in the sweet light of charity and mutual collaboration."

"Our work, with the aid of God, also will be to undertake every effort for the conservation of the great good of peace among peoples," Pope Paul said.

He followed these words with an appeal for world peace.

Spoken before Michelangelo's great fresco of "The Last Judgment," it recalled a similar appeal by Pope John last October soon after he opened the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

On that occasion Pope John, addressing the representatives of many nations, said the world's leaders must sacrifice in the interest of peace and "render an account to God . . . their supreme judge."

Today Pope Paul put his own peace appeal in these words:

"At this moment, in which mankind looks to this chair of truth, and to he who has been called to represent on earth The Divine Savior, we can only renew the appeal for loyal, frank, willing understanding which unites mankind, by favoring the peaceful development of rights bestowed by God and by facilitating the spiritual and religious life so that it be carried to the most vivid and profound adoration of the Creator."

Pope John had conceived his Ecumenical Council as an instrument for promoting the cause of Christian unity.

Same Spirit for Unity

Pope Paul made it clear today that he intended to carry forward the same spirit of Christian unity. He said:

"Our pontifical service will be to pursue with every commitment the great work launched with so much hope and with bright expectation by our predecessor."

Pope Has Audience

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today granted his first audience to persons from outside the Vatican and the College of Cardinals. The pontiff's first visitors, from his hometown, Brescia, in Northern Italy, included the mayor, several priests, and prominent citizens.

City Man Fined On 3 Violations

John C. Robb, 26, of Kingston, paid $45 in fines today in City Court when he admitted three traffic charges.

He was arrested about 2:25 a. m. on the Boulevard by Patrolmen Thomas Coffey and Lewis Keator.

Robb paid fines of $20 each when he admitted charges of speeding and crossing a double white line. He paid $5 for failure to note change of address on his driver's license.

Judge Joseph D. Saccoman dismissed a fourth charge of driving without an operator's license when Robb produced his license. However, the judge remanded Robb and warned him to keep his license immediately available.

In other cases: Lavern Clark, 23, of 710 Broadway, paid $25 in fines when he admitted charges of speeding and failure to change address. He was cited about 2:05 a. m. today by Patrolmen Keator and Coffey on Greenkill Avenue.

Joan Patricia Mautner, 18, of 196 Henry Street, paid a $50 fine when she admitted a speeding charge.

James O'Brien, 20, of St. Remy, and Maureen Buchanan, 20, of Esopus, paid fines of $15 when they admitted speeding charges.

Theodore Peck, 23, of 104 Main Street, paid a $10 fine when he admitted a charge of passing a flashing red light.

Gerhard Hahn Jr., 20, of Woodstock, was given a suspended sentence of a $15 fine when he admitted a speeding charge.

Pope to Continue Council

pectation by our predecessor John XXIII; the achievement of that 'Ut Unum Sint' so awaited by all and for which he (John) offered his life."

The Latin phrase "Ut Unum Sint," that they may be one, is a biblical reference that Christianity should be united.

On his death bed Pope John had said he was offering his life as a sacrifice for his Council, for world peace, and for Christian unity.

Pope Paul spoke feelingly about unity.

He said that "the common aspiration to reintegrate the unity sorrowfully broken in the past will find in us an echo of fervid will and moving prayer . . ."

"We open our arms to all those who glory in the name of Christ. We call them with the sweet name of brothers, and let them know they will find in us constant comprehension and benevolence, that they will find in Rome the paternal home . . ."

The new spiritual ruler, in taking the name Paul VI, emphasized his support for the path toward Christian unity charted by the late John XXIII, who died June 3.

The Apostle Paul did much to spread Christianity in the ancient world. His name is venerated by all Christian faiths.

Pope Paul VI, a vigorous, tranquil man with blue eyes and iron-gray hair, was the acknowledged favorite when the 80 cardinals locked themselves into the conclave area Wednesday.

Skilled Diplomat

A skilled diplomat who served Pope Pius XII as pro-secretary of state, he also worked closely with the successor to Pius, John XXIII. He supported the late Pope's efforts to bring Christians together and reach new arrangements for the faithful in Communist-ruled countries.

His election proved an exception to the Vatican adage that "He Who Enters the Conclave as Pope Comes Out as Cardinal," meaning that favorites are seldom chosen.

Quickly making his first appointment, Pope Paul appeared to be serving notice of his intentions.

He named Amleto Cardinal Cicognani as his secretary of state. Cardinal Cicognani had served Pope John in that post and was active in planning last fall's Ecumenical Council, considered the high point of Pope John's reign.

Vatican officials announced the coronation date of June 30, one day after the feast day of St. Peter and St. Paul. They said the day is most particularly connected with the memory of St. Paul.

On his coronation day, rich with the tradition of the ages, Pope Paul will be carried on his portable throne down the central aisle of St. Peter's Basilica as the vaulted church echoes to cheers and applause.

May Receive Kennedy 2nd

Outside, on the central balcony of St. Peter's, the three-tiered tiara of the pontificate, encrusted with precious gems and topped by the golden orb and cross, will be placed on his head as thousands give voice to their joy.

President Kennedy, whose European tour will take him to Italy June 30, is not expected to arrive in Rome in time for the ceremony, usually held in the morning.

Pope Paul is expected to receive the first Roman Catholic President of the United States in audience July 2.

In a message on behalf of the United States shortly after the Pope's election, Kennedy wished him "long years of leadership in the cause of peace and good will so nobly advanced by your great predecessor."

B & P Club Speaker Outlines Programs Of Welfare Office

Addressing the B and P Club of the YWCA, Miss Rosemary Feeney of the Ulster County Welfare Department told members the need for welfare has grown out of the change of the country from an "agricultural people to industry."

The speaker said that change came about because workers no longer live on farms where they can produce the necessities of life. Welfare, she explained, has been in operation for 300 years.

Other causes for the need of welfare, the speaker said, are old age, accidents, sickness and death of the breadwinner. Increases in the cost of living and in population are other causes. She contended there are not enough jobs.

"Welfare is supported by local, state and national governments," Miss Feeney said. "It is not voluntary. Welfare is divided into several divisions including old age assistance, aid to dependent children and aid to the blind. Aid to dependent children helps keep families together."

Miss Feeney said that welfare is not the cause of illegitimacy, but the result of bad social conditions. She noted that welfare aid is given to people who are so disabled that they cannot earn. Medical aid is given to the aged who can pay for their own keep aside from medical care.

There is a foster home program for children who must be taken away from their homes, and an adoption program, the speaker told her listeners. Out of $2,800,000 spent, 15 per cent is for medical care.

Miss Feeney explained that the aim of the Welfare Department is to try to educate people to earn more, with the aid of a staff trained to teach them to be able to take care of themselves.

Wednesday, June 26, the club will end the year's activities with a picnic supper on the patio of Mrs. Eleanor H. Booth, executive director of the YWCA, of 51 Maiden Lane.

We The Women Parents Face Up to Teens!

By RUTH MILLETT

I never really expected to see it happen. But it is happening all over the country.

I'm talking about parents getting together to set standards for teenagers, and to agree to enforce them.

For at least 10 years I've been writing that the only way for parents to cope with what someone else has termed "teen-age tyranny" is for parents to stand together.

This is to offset the fact that teenagers have gained most of their bargaining power by use of "all the other kids can do such-and-such" and "nobody else's parents are as strict as you are."

Now it is actually happening. In towns and cities in all parts of the country parents, alarmed by the faster and faster social pace being set for junior high and high school students, are getting together to slow down the pace.

Are the teen-agers and young-children horrified at this sudden determination of their parents to unite for greater strength?

Surprisingly enough, they aren't. In Greenville, Miss., for example, students interviewed in groups admitted they thought their parents had not been strict enough in the past.

Many said they would be relieved if the parents would forbid going steady. Others mentioned that they wished their parents would tell them exactly what time they were expected to be home in the evening, instead of giving them such vague instructions as "Don't stay out too late," or "Get home as soon as you can."

The teen-agers even thought up one idea of their own. After agreeing that their parents had a right to know where they were in the evening, they suggested that children are also entitled to know where their parents are at all times.

More insight on our teenagers: Ruth Millett's "Tips on Teen-Agers." Mail 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N. Y.

State Welfare Chief Cites Lack of Funds

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state welfare commissioner says a lack of funds is hindering his agency in supervising a growing number of "hotels for senior citizens."

"We'd like to get at the problem," Commissioner George Wyman said Friday, "but we do not have the money to do so."

Wyman made his remarks at a conference of state and local welfare officials and nursing home operators called to hear opinions on new nursing home regulations the State Board of Social Welfare plans to promulgate this year.

Dr. Ray E. Trussell, New York City Hospital commissioner, told of one nursing home that shut its doors in the face of new, more stringent nursing - home regulations, then reopened later as a hotel for elderly persons.

Trussell said fire swept the hotel shortly afterward, and one occupant was killed.

Wyman said that some old reports also have been turned into such hotels.

Han Dynasty Achievements

The Han dynasty in Chinese history, which extended from 206 B.C. to 221 A.D., abounded in the arts and spread its influence far beyond the borders of China.

Wrought bronze objects, some gilded and inlaid with gold and silver, are among the achievements of the ancient artisans.

Wagner to Appoint Action Panel Unit

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner vows to continue working for Negro job opportunities "until the last vestiges of discrimination no longer exist."

The mayor told a news conference Friday, a few hours after returning from a far eastern trip, that he will set up a three-member "action panel" in a day or two to look into Negro complaints of discrimination in the construction industry here.

He said Peter Brennan, president of the Building and Construction Trades Council, had assured him that "technically qualified" members of minority groups would be put to work in the industry "right away" if job opportunities exist.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has threatened mass anti-discrimination demonstrations at construction sites here this summer unless trade unions start hiring more Negro workers immediately.

Wagner told newsmen, "They have a right to demonstrate in an orderly fashion."

He left here shortly after the news conference for the New York State Conference of Mayors at Lake Placid this weekend.

At Lake Placid Friday night, Wagner called on fellow mayors in the state to join him in asking Gov. Rockefeller and legislative leaders to summon a special legislative session to deal with racial discrimination.

The sixth annual dinner of the Ulster Dog Training Club held Saturday evening at the Sky Top Restaurant was largely attended by members and guests. Dinner chairman, Mary McDonald was assisted by Eileen Savage.

Guest speaker, Charles Leedham of New York City, American Kennel Club licensed obedience judge and author of two well-known dog books, Dog Obedience Training and Care of the Dog and numerous magazine articles was enthusiastically received. The theme of his talk was the invaluable service specially trained dogs render policemen in apprehending criminals, riot control, tracking lost humans and protection.

Mr. Leedham recently returned from a trip to London, England, where he accompanied London police on their tours of duty with their respective police dogs. Between three and four hundred dogs are now used in police work in England. The majority of the dogs are German shepherds. The dogs are specially trained in a 14-week course of about eight hours a day. Each dog is assigned to a constable and lives with him as a family pet. The dogs are so finely trained, a lead is never used on the dogs while they are on duty. The dogs are trained to obey the commands of his handler. The high degree of success accorded the police dog in riot control is the fact, a rowdy group of individuals cannot scare a dog—when given a command by his handler, nothing short of disablement or death will stop him from obeying the command.

Awards Presented
Clifford Warren, club president presented Ronald Savage the past presidents trophy award and the Dog World Magazine award for his outstanding service to the club and the dog world in general.

Kathryn Seitz, director of training presented special awards to club members who have won obedience and breed degrees with their dogs over the past year. They are:

Mary Van de Carr of Wappingers Falls achieved a Companion Dog Excellent obedience degree with her German shepherd, Heidi; Cornelia Crissey also of Wappingers Falls won a Companion Dog degree with her poodle, Bunny and in addition winning the Dog World Magazine Canine Distinction Award for achieving a CD degree in three consecutive shows with scores over 195 or better out of a possible perfect score of 200; Mary McDonald of Kingston with her Doberman, Mary's Red Lady winning a Companion Dog Degree in three consecutive shows with high scores and has won two legs on a Canadian CD; B. Binger of Woodstock with her keeshond, Juni, a CD degree; Ruth Sherman of Willow with her poodle, Jasmine winning a CD degree in three consecutive shows and Dennis Day with his doberman, Patti winning a CD degree in three consecutive shows.

Recently elected officers for the coming year are: president, Clifford Warren of Napanoch; vice president, Donald Savage of Grand Gorge; secretary, Marie Partridge of West Hurley and treasurer, Claire Carlen of West Hurley. Re-elected to the board of directors were: Mary McDonald, Marie Partridge and Donald Savage.

Scotland Yard was originally an area just off Whitehall, London, which took its name from a palace there during the 10th century reign of Edgar. The Scottish kings were given a piece of ground next to the new palace of Westminster. It was to serve as a residence for them on their yearly visit to pay homage to England. London's first Commissioner of Police and Improvement set up quarters there in 1662.

Conservation Aid For Farms Noted By Area Chairman

"Conservation work costs money. That's why we have an Agricultural Conservation Program, E. M. Wood, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Ulster County Committee, said today. He pointed out that being convinced about the benefits of conservation is not enough, and expressed the belief that some farmers still may not understand that they can obtain program help in getting the needed conservation job done on their farms.

"Just drive around the country," the chairman declared, "and you can easily spot the farms where conservation farming is being practiced. In most cases, you would also find that the Agricultural Conservation Program is cooperating with the farmer in carrying out the conservation practice on the land."

Explains Purpose
For farmers who may not fully understand just how ACP works, Wood explained that the program's purpose is to encourage the establishment of soil, water, woodland, and wildlife conservation practices needed in the public interest. The program, therefore, has an incentive type of approach to the problem — it "shares the cost" of sound conservation measures which the farmer would not carry out without such assistance.

Funds for this purpose are authorized by Congress in recognition of the fact that the nation's natural resources are vital not only to the farmers and ranchers who operate the land, but also to the health and well-being of each citizen, both now and in the future.

ACP practices to promote conservation measures are selected to meet local as well as national conditions. Each county has a list of the practices, specifications, and cost-share rates approved for local farmers participating in the program.

In brief, the farmer obtains ACP cooperation by filing a request with the ASC County Committee for ACP cost-sharing before carrying out the practice. He receives a definite notice from the committee of the extent to which his request has been approved. After completion of the practice, the farmer certifies this by filing the necessary report form with the county office. His cost-sharing assistance, in the form of either cash or a purchase order for a conservation service or material, usually covers about half the cost of the approved practice.

Farmers Reimbursed
Under the cash plan, the farmer pays the total cost of establishing the approved practice, and he is later reimbursed for the government's share of the cost. Under the purchase order plan, the government's cost-share is advanced to the vendor who supplies the material (1) a conservation material — such as lime. The vendor who furnishes the material, bills the government and receives payment for the government's share of the cost. The farmer pays the vendor the difference between the amount the government pays and the total cost of the material or service used.

ACP also helps pay for technical service where required to determine need and practicability.

County Treasurer Has Moved to Temporary Office

Fred DuBois, Ulster County treasurer, announced Friday that his department has moved to temporary quarters located on North Front Street in the building formerly occupied by the A&P store.

The business of the Ulster County Treasurer's office will be conducted at the new location, until completion of the County Office Building to be located at Main and Fair Streets, except that the original tax rolls for searching purposes will remain in the vaults in the Court House. A member of the treasurer's staff also will be at the Court House to expedite the operations of the tabulating department, with that of the treasurer's office.

DuBois said that there is parking space available in the rear of the building to accommodate those conducting business with the office and that his office will make every effort to serve the public as efficiently as possible.

The treasurer's office is the first of several county departments to be temporarily relocated in this location. It is expected that the Motor Vehicle Bureau and Welfare Department will soon be occupying the building with the county treasurer.

Proper Tool Needed for Job

By MR. FIX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If a person chooses his hammer carefully in the first place, and then continues to care for it, it's quite likely that he will never need to purchase more than one hammer of any given type in his lifetime.

Sound incredible? It isn't, particularly for the homemaker who is in the habit of repairing before discarding.

Various Kinds

Buy a hammer that will serve the purposes you have in mind. For general carpentry choose a claw hammer. A curved claw is for pulling nails; you can move the handle through a greater arc and get more leverage with a sharply curved claw.

A straight claw also will pull nails and is handy for separating boards that have been nailed together or even splitting boards. A tack hammer, the magnetized variety, is handy for driving tacks and brads. The magnetized head will hold the tack, leaving your other hand free for holding the material in place.

If you work with brick or concrete, get yourself a mason's hammer. A chisel-like end is used to score brick or stone and to split materials. The mason's hammer has a square end for chipping.

Get a ball peen hammer or small sledge for heavy work, using it with a cold chisel or with masonry drills.

Forged Head

The hammer head should be made of drop forged steel. Wood handles should be of straight grained hickory. Avoid hammers with painted handles. The paint may hide a defect in the wood. (Latest in hammers is the one-piece hammer with head and handle made of steel.)

Treat wood handles with linseed oil to prevent drying out. If a handle should break, do not discard the head and buy another hammer. For a few cents you can buy another handle. Get the same size and shape as the old one—you will have to trim it slightly for exact fit.

Fit to Head

Use a sanding block (or a disc sander, if you have one) to gradually shape the end of the handle to fit the opening in the head. You should be able to fit the handle all the way into the head.

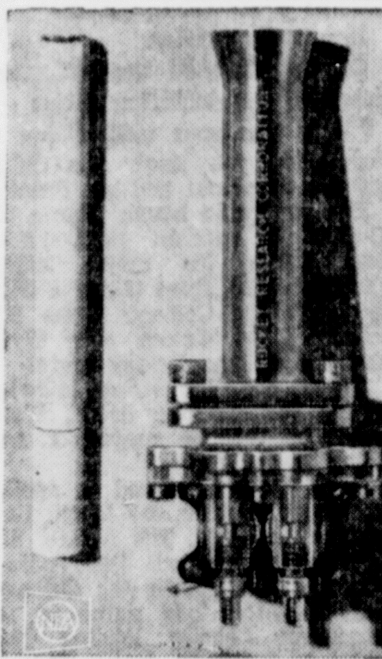

Drill or pound out the remains of the old handle. Don't burn it out. You may spoil the temper of the metal.

Don't drive the handle in tightly. Once it is shaped, remove it from the head and saw a diagonal slot. It should be deep enough to extend two-thirds of the way into the head. Sand a thin wood wedge to fit the slot.

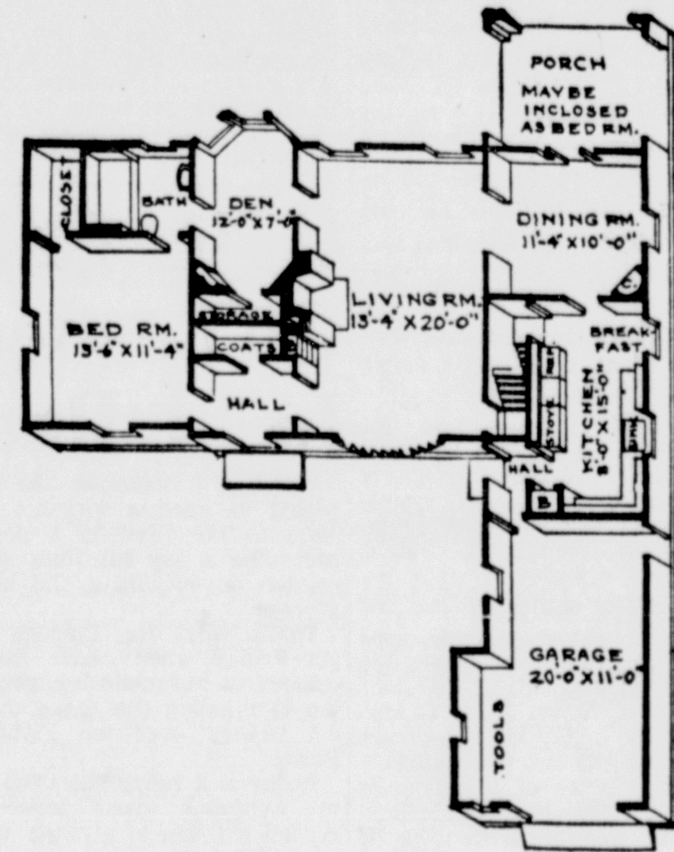

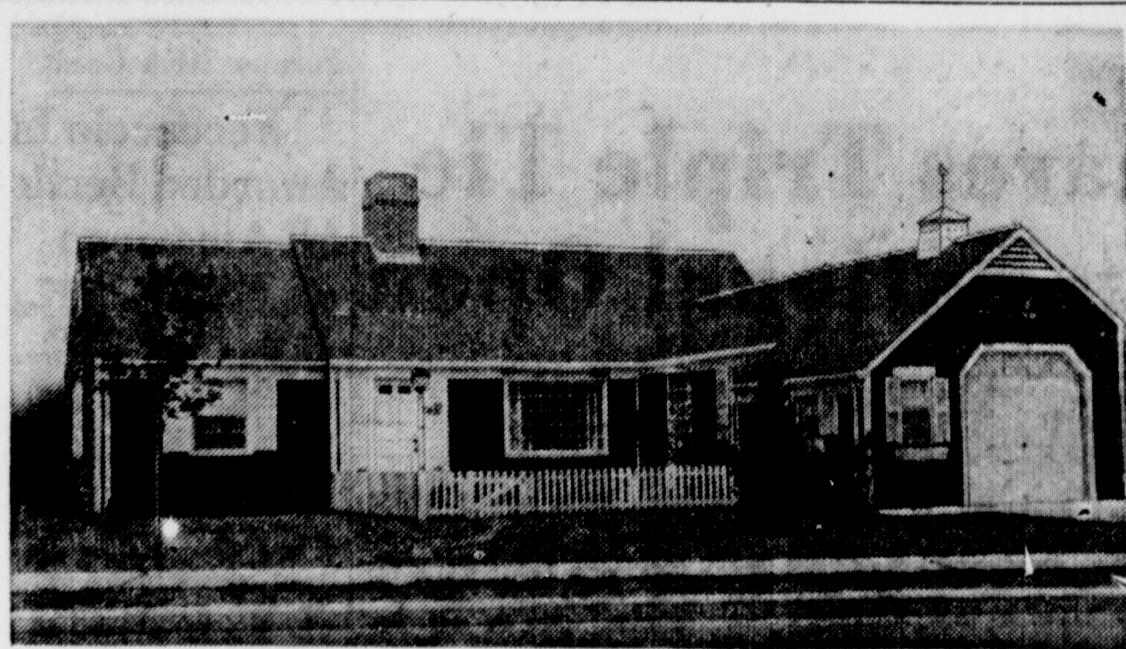

Insert the wedge all the way into the slot and then cut it off flush. Then drive a pair of metal wedges across the wood wedge.

Distinctive, Charming Home Has Ample Space

Rooms Six
Bedrooms Two
Closets Four
Total Cubage 24,900 ft.
Dimensions 45' x 47'

Joined as it is to the front of the house, the garage gives a distinctive L shaped appearance to "The Detroit," today's presentation from the Home of the Week Plan Service. Thoroughly modern open planning gives the interior of "The Detroit" a distinctive appearance, also.

An integral part of the overall architecture of "The Detroit," the garage resembles in appearance an old-fashioned barn. Thus, it gives the house a home, rural air that makes "The Detroit" especially well adapted for building in the suburbs or country. Barn red, with white trim, would make an excellent exterior color scheme for this house.

Overall measurements, including the house and attached garage, are 45 feet by 47 feet; at least a 70-foot lot would be required for "The Detroit." The main house measures 47 feet by 21 feet; cubage is 24,900 feet.

To add even more charm to the exterior appearance of this thoroughly charming home, use decorative "extras" such as a low picket fence, window blinds, and a trellis over which your roses can climb.

The abundance of windows combined with the open planning gives an unusually spacious appearance to the interior of "The Detroit." While there is but one bedroom proper, you can have three bedrooms if you so desire because the 12 foot by 7 foot den can be used as a bedroom and the back porch can be enclosed and also used as a sleeping room. Thus, there is plenty of sleeping space provided, even for a large family.

Any housewife will appreciate the generous size of the closets in "The Detroit." You can give added practical value to the large storage area, in the front wall of the den, by having it lined with cedar. This space can then safely be used as an off-season storage place for woolen clothing and household articles.

Additional storage space is available in the unfinished attic as well as in the garage. The home handyman can make the special tool storage section in the garage into a regular work shop. A carpenter's bench can easily be placed against the wall where the man of the house will reap the benefits of the extra light coming through the window centered in that wall.

You'll find the well lighted breakfast nook a pleasant spot in which to serve your family's breakfast; the youngsters will enjoy having their midday lunches there as well as their afternoon snacks. It'll be no problem to serve dinner in the adjoining dining room.

Your laundry equipment must be installed in the basement of "The Detroit"; it should be located under the kitchen. The heating plant should be placed under the living room.

Remove Mildew

It's a waste of time to paint over mildew. The mold must be removed before you paint, and if these growths are common in your area, it's wise to use a mildew resistant paint. The National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association recommends removing the growth by washing it with a solution made as follows: one quart of household bleach, 3 ounces of a cleaner containing trisodium phosphate, one ounce of detergent and three quarts of warm water. Allow to stand for five minutes then rinse with clean water.

An occasional dusting is the only periodic maintenance required for a closet lined with aromatic red cedar, the moth-repellent southern wood.

The Mark of Quality

Many home builders are finding that quality is still one of the best salesmen for their products. One mark of quality, for example, that home builders are quick to advertise is ceramic tile in bathrooms and kitchens. Colorful and durable ceramic tile has become virtually a hallmark of quality construction and thus adds to the salability of a new home.

Second Thoughts

Spring and summer sees millions of homeowners repairing the ravages of winter. Building authorities at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division note that many would-be home-sellers change their minds when they finish their clean-up, touch-up chores.

Gift for Dad

An ideal gift for a dad who is just starting a home workshop is a versatile new table saw. In choosing such a gift from the family, be sure the equipment has a rigid cast-iron table and other cast iron parts important to long, trouble-free operation.

LITTLE LIZ

After an author completes a modern day best-seller, he should wash his typewriter out with soap.

Cooling System Rates Careful Spring Cleanup

Spring is the time to get your air conditioning system in shape for the hot weather ahead.

If snow and cold weather caught you unprepared last fall, you can start by cleaning off the condenser coils, suggests American Furnace Company.

These coils, located in a cabinet outside the house, are an important part of a central air conditioning system because this is where the refrigerant for the whole system is cooled.

Grass clippings, dust, lint from clothes dryers, and other foreign materials collect on the coils all summer as air is drawn through them. If the unit isn't cleaned, the flow of air can be reduced by more than 50 per cent, severely hampering efficiency.

Condenser - compressor units such as those manufactured by American Furnace make it possible to take off the sides of the protective cabinet merely by removing a few screws. Dust and clippings then can be swept off the coils with a broom or brush.

The same job can be done without removing the sides of the cabinet. Just direct a garden hose through the top grille and wash away the matted material at full pressure. The equipment in the cabinet is completely sealed in most of these units and cannot be harmed by water.

The coil surfaces should not be hosed down from the sides, however, since this will tend to push the obstructions further into the coil.

It's a good idea to have a trained serviceman clean and adjust the mechanical parts of your central cooling system, possibly at the same time he is servicing your heating plant.

Clean 'Em Out

Soon, if not right now, is the time to check your gutters to be sure they and the downspouts are not clogged by fallen leaves, the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association advises. Fall and winter rains as well as melting snow may be backed up under your roof if the drains are clogged. This dammed up water can damage the plaster and paint inside the house and if it enters the outside walls can cause the paint to peel next spring.

Super-Sensitive

The new electronic air filters for forced air heating and air-conditioning systems are so sensitive that they trap airborne particles as small as 1/100,000th of an inch in diameter, according to American Furnace Company, a leading manufacturer. This means that even tiny grains of ragweed pollen and other irritants are eliminated from the home.

Palmer Shares Triple Tie For First in National Open

HE MISSED THE PUTT—Dean Refram of Medinah, Ill., expressed his feelings in this manner as he missed a putt on 10th green during second round of play in National Open at Brookline, Mass. Refram posted an even par 71 round and has a 36-hole total of 143. (AP Wirephoto)

Against Yonkers

Braves Slate Home Opener Sunday at 2

Hoping for a break from the weatherman, the Kingston Braves are scheduled for a second opening of their 1963 home season Sunday with a 2 p. m. Middle Atlantic league game against Yonkers.

Manager Dick Bartsch will probably send fireballer Mike Spada to the hill in an attempt to reverse an opening loss suffered at Yonkers two weeks ago. If Spada runs into trouble, either Paul Gardner or lefty Tom Bridges will be ready for relief duty.

Yonkers has a 1-2 league record, having lost a pair of one-run decisions to Beacon and Meriden, Conn. The visitors scored a 4-2 triumph over Kingston.

This was right after Art Wall Jr., playing in the same threesome with Arnold Palmer, hooked his drive into the rough, and we asked him what club he used. . . . "What difference does it make?" rasped Art. "They're only interested in one of us" . . . he waved his arms belligerently at the trampling legions of Arnie's Army blotting the fairway. . . .

Palmer has become embarrassed by the singular attention and tries to shush the crowds when the other guys are mulling over putts. . . .

"There are a lot more than three good golfers," steamed Wall, in an obvious reference to the troika of Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, which commands the bulk of attention. . . . "They must think we're dumb," he continued, "and interested only in making $25,000 a year. How about Julius Boros? You newspaper guys don't even know he's around. He's my idea of a great golfer." . . .

When Palmer canned a putt, leaving Jay Hebert still on the green, the big crowd at the Thunderbird Classic at the Westchester Country Club in Harrison, N. Y., broke for the next tee and had to be admonished by loudspeakers to remain still. . . . "See that, fellows," Wall shook his head. "That's what gets you." . . .

Know why Australia is able to maintain its tennis continuity? Every night, from Perth to Sydney, the kids down Under are out looting jobs because courts are lit up. . . . The night life idea has spread to Greece. . . . N. D. Anagnostopoulos, deputy mayor of Athens, visited New York and detailed how he designed a dozen new stadiums for the city so track and field men can practice after work and after the sun has descended over the Acropolis. . . . Anagnostopoulos used to be the broad jump champion of Greece. . . .

Proud to be a New York Met: right after a losing chore at the Polo Grounds, lefty Al Jackson was spotted outside his house in Sunnyside (Long Island). . . . proudly wearing his Met warmup jacket and signing autographs for a cluster of kids. . . .

The American League player they talk about most in dressing room conversation is Al Kaline, the gifted right fielder of the Detroit Tigers. . . . and not just because he's on a spree that threatens to land him triple crown batting honors. . . . "He's the best outfielder I've ever seen," said Baltimore third baseman Brooks Robinson (a great glove man in his own right). . . .

The Orioles are worried that the bad arm which put Chuck Estrada on the disabled list could mean fini for the handsome right-hander. . . .

Warren Spahn was introduced to champion bowler Dick Weber, bowling ball in hand. . . . "How," asked Old Hooks, "do you throw a curve?" . . . He fingered the heavy sphere, spat lightly, then mused. "Wonder how you'd throw a spitter with this?" . . .

Pitching coach Ernie White of the Mets was a fine left-hander for the St. Louis Cardinals in his playing days. . . . but raps grounders to the infield from the right side. . . . "In fact," he added, "the only things I ever did left-handed were pitch and shoot marbles." . . .

Between you'n'me, when the Cards swapped Gene Oliver, Carl Sawatski was established as their first-string catcher. . . . but four seasons ago, the 35-year-old receiver told the Philadelphia Phillies he was quitting baseball if they didn't place him closer to his Little Rock home. . . . which is how he got to St. Louis. . . .

Nicklaus Is Out After Shooting 77

By DON WEISS

Associated Press Sports Writer

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Don't look now, but here comes that man again and this time Jack Nicklaus isn't in his way.

Arnold Palmer, golf's glamor boy, heads into Saturday's 36-hole wind-up of the 63rd National Open championship with a well-tuned game, and not a worry in the world about Nicklaus, who trimmed him in a playoff for the title a year ago.

A spectacularly fashioned 2-under-par 69 did the job for the bronzed 33-year-old Latrobe, Pa., better Friday, catapulting him into a three-way tie for the lead at 142 with his closest golfing buddy, Dow Finsterwald and a tough, 25-year-old Texan, Jacky Cupit.

And while Palmer and his mighty army of fanatics trampled the hallowed rolls and knolls of the 6,870-yard par 35-36-71 temple of tradition, Masters and reigning Open champion Nicklaus dropped out of sight.

His great game suddenly gone sour after some experimenting with his driving style, Nicklaus flopped to a 77 and failed to survive the cut to the low 50 scorers and ties for the last two rounds.

It took a score of 152-10 over par for 36 holes—to qualify. Nicklaus, who had misfired to a 76 on Thursday's first round, wound up at 153, becoming the first champion to fail to get past the cut since Jack Fleck fizzled in 1956, a year after he had beaten Ben Hogan in a 1955 championship playoff.

The showdown appears headed for a five-man tussle among Palmer, Finsterwald, Cupit, and two seasoned players who'll start the day just three strokes off the pace. Tony Lema and Julius Boros.

Former NFA Great Al Beccaccio Is Awarded Berth On All-American

Al Beccaccio, former ALL-DESO basketball and baseball player at Newburgh Free Academy, has been awarded a berth on the College All-American Baseball team. Beccaccio, a recent graduate of Florida State University, hurled his club into the finals of the college tournament, posting a neat 1.1 record.

The former NFA star has been offered bonus contracts by the Detroit Tigers and Los Angeles Angels. At present, he is one of 10 college players touring South America on a seven week good-will tour.

Beccaccio played at Newburgh between 1955 and 1957. He was an outstanding athlete and is believed to be the first All-American to come from the Hilly City.

Cubs Gain On Leaders In NL Race

It takes a touch of the unexpected to keep a longshot team close to the front in a pennant race—like a key hit from an ex-cricketer player with a .215 batting average.

That's what the Chicago Cubs got Friday when Andre Rodgers clubbed a run-producing single in the 10th inning that gave them a 6-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rodgers, a rangy shortstop from the Bahamas whose prowess at cricket led him to a major league baseball career, came up with the bases full and one out in the 10th, and stroked his hit over the pulled-in Pirate infield.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Cubs, a second division club in the National League for the past 16 years and picked for another lower echelon finish this season. Despite the dire predictions, they're currently in fifth place, just 2½ games from the top and only a point out of fourth.

In other action—the Sandy Koufax-Rodgers pitching combination plus Tommie Davis' homer paced the Los Angeles Dodgers over first-place St. Louis 5-3; Milwaukee bunched six runs with only two hits in the fifth inning and whipped San Francisco 6-3; right-hander Jim Maloney became an 11-game winner with a four-hitter as Cincinnati blanked Houston 3-0; and the New York Mets snapped their latest losing string at five, trimming Philadelphia 3-1.

Koufax was within one out of his third straight shutout in the Dodgers' decision over the Cards when Tim McCarver tagged a three-run homer with two away in the last of the ninth. The star southpaw, now 11-3, issued a walk before giving way to Perranoski, who got the final out.

Tommy Davis hit his homer with one on in the eighth and blow proved decisive. Curt Simmons was nipped for all five Dodger runs.

Bob Bolin of the Giants held Milwaukee without a hit until the fifth—when the Braves erupted. Joe Torre triggered the outburst with a homer, then Bolin came apart. A walk, an error, a hit batsman and a wild pitch tied the score at 2-2, two more walks forced in the go-ahead run, and Lee Maye capped it by slamming a bases-loaded triple against Bolin.

Orlando Cepeda connected for two homers against Milwaukee winner Tony Cloninger. Maloney, winning his fifth straight and running his record to 11-2, was in a scoreless struggle with Houston's Ken Johnson until the Reds rallied for three runs in the last of the ninth. Bob Skinner singled across the first marker, another came in on Vada Pinson's ground out, and pinch batter Frank Robinson singled in the third.

The fourth-place Reds now have won four in a row while Houston has lost five straight.

Left-hander Al Jackson got the Mets' first hit against the Phils' Cal McLish, a leadoff single in the sixth, and scored the game's first run when Frank Thomas drove in two with a double. Jackson also singled in the seventh, after a walk, and Jim Piersall bunted home New York's third run.

Jackson pitched a seven-hitter for the last-place Mets.

Randy Ciarlante Pitches No-Hitter in Glasco Loop

Randy Ciarlante fired a no-hitter as the Dodgers walloped the Yankees, 22-0, in a Glasco Little League game. He struck out 15 batters in hurling the masterpiece.

Sal Sangi led a 23-hit attack with four doubles and a single. Tom Greco had a double, homer and two singles. All told, the winners had 11 two base hits. Greco scored five runs while Ciarlante and Sangi tallied four times each. Steve Sasso and Bruce Lee stroked three hits each and David Sasso had a pair of safeties.

Regime Is New But Headaches Remain in Italy

ROME (AP)—Italy had a brand new government today but the same old political headaches.

President Antonio Segni Friday night accepted a minority all-Christian Democratic cabinet formed by Giovanni Leone to scotch the nation's 36-day government crisis.

The 22-member cabinet was largely a re-shuffle of ministers who had served under Amintore Fanfani, with four new ones added.

Fanfani had been serving in caretaker capacity since May 16 when he resigned following the April parliamentary election.

Leone's effort was clearly a stop-gap arrangement to get some necessary legislative business done, and greet President Kennedy when he arrives for a scheduled two-day visit June 30.

LA Integration Protest Planned

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Officials of education, union and housing groups in Los Angeles say Negro leaders haven't given them enough time to comply fully with integration demands.

Nor have they taken advantage of reforms already in effect, added a Los Angeles School Board member.

Negroes countered at a news conference Friday that response to their 10-day "total integration" deadline for Los Angeles—set June 6—was inadequate. They said they would start a series of peaceful protest demonstrations Monday.

Dr. Christopher Taylor, spokesman for the United Civil Rights Committee, declared: "We do not feel that those who call the shots in the fields of employment, housing, education and law enforcement really believe that we mean it when we say that we want integration now—or that they have seriously tried to meet our demands."

The chairman of the Los Angeles County Human Relations Commission, Frank W. Chuman, said:

"For them to demonstrate is a clear sign... of an attempt to blackmail us into something."

Los Angeles county, with a population of more than six million, has about 500,000 Negroes.

Mrs. Georgiana Hardy, chairman of the Los Angeles Board of Education's Equal Opportunities Committee, said minority groups have not taken advantage of new school board policy encouraging them to apply for transfer from overcrowded schools to under-enrolled ones.

The committee of three school board members and seven citizens has been working on demands of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People since last August.

CARLA WALLEDA
Famous Aerialist To Star Monday With Beatty Show

Carla Wallenda Jordan, who looks and acts like a young and retiring housewife or a conscientious and hard-working secretary, will defy death on the high wire Monday afternoon and night when the Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. Circus, the largest in the world, comes to Kingston.

Sponsored by the Kingston Council 275, Knights of Columbus, the circus will give performances at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. at Dietz Stadium. It will arrive in Kingston sometime after concluding an afternoon performance on Sunday in Poughkeepsie.

The circus, which was a big hit in a previous appearance here two years ago, has 10 acres of canvas. One of the features is the animal act of famed trainer Clyde Beatty, who appears in person.

Of course, the Wallenda family is well-known. Mrs. Jordan is a daughter of Karl Wallenda, who founded the act in Germany. In slightly more than two years, three members have been killed in aerial accidents and another was permanently crippled. Carla, as well as the others in the family, has never performed with a net.

In addition to the well-known acts, the circus features many animals. Doors will open one hour before show time, so that spectators may view everything under the big top.

Summer Bows In Chilly Note

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Summer made a chilly debut in New York State Friday night, but a warming trend quickly took over, and the weather bureau promised a pleasant, sunny weekend.

Summer arrived officially at 11:04 p.m., EDT, as temperatures across the state skidded into the 40's and below. At Elmira, the mercury dipped to 38 overnight.

Skies were generally clear at daybreak, however, and temperatures were expected to climb to 70 and beyond today—the first full day of summer.

The weather bureau forecast fair and dry weather through Monday, with each day growing a little warmer.

Summer Is Greeted With Unusual Chill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Early morning temperatures in the chilly 40s marked the first full day of Summer Saturday for the Great Lakes region and portions of the Ohio Valley and the northern Rockies.

Readings in the 50s were common over the North and Middle Atlantic Coast states, the Upper and Middle Mississippi Valley, the Northwest and the Pacific Coast region.

The Southern portions of the nation registered early morning temperatures in the 80s while the mercury crept into the 90s in the desert Southwest.

There were duststorms in Nebraska and scattered thunder-shower activity over the North and Central plains, the Pacific Northwest, eastern Florida, Alabama and North Carolina.

2 Persons Hurt In Area Mishaps

Two persons were injured and a Putnam County man was charged with a motor vehicle violation, as the result of highway mishaps investigated by Ellenville State Police.

Ralph Schoonmaker, 42, of Neversink, received a concussion and was admitted to Veterans Memorial Hospital at Ellenville after his car went out of control. Traveling east on Route 55, 4 1/2 miles west of Route 209, his car failed to negotiate a left curve and went off the south side of the highway, down a 10 foot embankment, turned over and came to rest on its wheels. He was alone at the time. Troopers J. W. Kelly and David Wehrlein investigated.

At 1:30 a. m. today a car operated by Richard Mustion, 19, of Carmel, was traveling on Route 44-55 in Kerhonkson about 200 feet from the entrance to Route 209 when the operator applied his brakes for a stop sign at Route 209. The car left the road and went into a field. Mustion was issued a summons for failure to keep right and for operating a car at a speed not reasonable or prudent.

A passenger Lawrence Wells of Granit Hotel, Accord, received lacerations of the nose and right knee and said he would seek treatment from his physician. Mustion was taken to Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, for treatment.

Plea of Insanity Slated for Trial Of Girl's Slayer

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Tom Bean, a lean and quiet boy of 18, is scheduled to go on trial Monday in one of the most bizarre murder cases in the colorful history of this gambling-tourist mecca.

Bean is charged with murder in the strangling and mutilation of Sonia McCaskie, a pretty former Olympic skier, the morning of April 5.

The trial is set for Washoe County District Court.

Harry Anderson, Bean's attorney, has been ill the past two weeks but Dist. Atty. William J. Raggio, who will prosecute, said Anderson told him Friday he planned to be in court for the opening proceedings Monday.

Anderson said he would base the defense, which he is handling for a token $1 fee, on insanity. Bean, from Reno, pleaded innocent when arraigned in District Court last month.

Miss McCaskie's mutilated body was found in her bloody four-room duplex in southwest Reno by a policeman after a baby-sitter had come concerned about her and called police.

An expensive German camera belonging to Miss McCaskie, was found in a pawnshop and later traced to Bean.

Raggio said the boy admitted sneaking into Miss McCaskie's modest apartment through the unlocked back door, strangling her, raping her and cutting up the body. The district attorney quoted Bean as saying he had prowled the neighborhood previously and entered with the intent of rape.

Trial Postponed

Saugerties Police Justice G. Thomas Rea Jr. adjourned until June 28 a hearing in the case of Dominick Gambino, 39, of Ulster Avenue, Saugerties, who is charged with third-degree assault. He denied the charge, preferred by Mrs. Marilyn Masker, 27, of Route 1, Box 301, Saugerties, at his arraignment on June 14 and was free in $100 bail for a hearing last night.

Car Recovered

Mrs. Gertrude Pritchett of Hyde Park reported at 1:29 a. m. today her car had been taken from the garage. At 2:40 a. m. Lieut. Charles Schade of the Town of Poughkeepsie police notified State Police at Rhinecliff that the car had been recovered. State police reported the car had been found in the possession of two boys.

Business Week in Review

NEW YORK (AP) — Labor peace settled on the vast steel industry this week.

A historic agreement between the United Steelworkers Union and the producers held many ramifications for the economy as a whole.

The pact covering 400,000 basic steelworkers came after months of talks by the human relations committee set up by the union and management to ease the path toward agreement.

Action of the committee made it unnecessary for the union to reopen the 1962 contract with the possibility of a strike 90 days later.

No Severe Falloff

First reaction was expected to be a drop in steel orders from users who had been buying at an accelerated rate as a hedge against a strike. With rumors of an agreement having been heard for more than a week, a more than seasonal downturn in orders had been noted.

However, industry sources indicated they felt that the falloff of orders wouldn't be severe as last year's because the economy is moving at a rapid rate and the day-to-day need for steel is strong.

The settlement called for an intended vacation plan for veteran employees and some improvements in fringe benefits. The union agreed to extend the contract from the present termination date of June 30, 1964, to May 1, 1965. While a successful conclusion of the steel talks was being reached, renewed negotiations proceeded between railroads and their unions without any report of progress in the work rules dispute.

The deadline of midnight June 17—after which the railroads could have changed work rules and the unions would have been free to strike—was extended to July 10 under urging of President Kennedy.

The main issue is the railroads' desire to eliminate the jobs of 40,000 firemen on diesel-powered yard and freight train locomotives.

JFK Ready to Act Kennedy said that if there is no agreement by July 10 he would seek legislation to "protect the public against loss of its rail transport."

One of the brightest economic developments was the rise of personal income in May to a record annual rate of $158 billion. For the first five months of this year the figure was at an annual rate of $19.5 billion above the like period of 1962.

Corporate profits in the first three months of this year held at virtually the same level as in the final three months of last year. Hodges said this was good news because the total usually declines during the first quarter.

This year the corporate earnings totaled $53.3 billion against $53.25 billion in the 1962 final quarter.

Sales on the New York Stock Exchange this week totaled 22,538,311 shares compared with 22,949,040 shares the week before. Trading in bonds were slow, totaling $23,707,800 par value compared with $25,807,500 last week.

Sawkill Vols Plan Foam Drill Monday

Members of Sawkill Fire Company have planned a special drill with Spring Lake and Zena Fire companies to demonstrate foam application to oil and chemical fires. The drill will be held Monday, June 24 at 7 p. m. at the Sawkill fire company grounds.

The demonstration was arranged with Nichols Oxygen Service of Hyde Park. The public is invited. Refreshments will be served after the demonstration.

A demonstration on the use of a small hand fire extinguisher also will take place. Fire officials said this extinguisher should be in every home and car. The extinguisher will be used in a drive by Sawkill volunteers to raise funds to purchase new equipment for the recently purchased tank truck.

Mine Guard Slain

*WHITWELL, Tenn. (AP) — A gunman shot and killed a guard Friday night who was reporting to work at Grundy Mining Company's coal-loading ramp north of here.

Aaron Pressnell, about 50, was hit in the heart and died instantly, state troopers said.

Two Palmer, Tenn., men were held for questioning, Grundy County Sheriff Jim Meeks reported. He said no charges were filed.

Grundy is operating mines in the often violent southeast Tennessee coalfields despite a 600-worker strike started Dec. 26 by the United Mine Workers Union.

The shooting was witnessed by Bobby Layne, who was driving Pressnell to work. As they neared the gate to Grundy's mines, Layne said, a car filled with five men blocked the road, mobbed the car and shot Pressnell.

Cool to Super School

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Legislative leaders and scientists appeared today to favor strengthening existing institutions rather than building a new super school to spark a major expansion of science education in New York State.

A coolness towards the super-school concept, as envisioned by Gov. Rockefeller, prevailed Friday at an organizational meeting of the Legislature's Science Advisory Council.

John R. Dunning of Columbia University was elected chairman of the 12-member council, which has the primary function of advising the Legislature on scientific matters.

Speed Is Gratifying

Clerics Hail Choice of Pope

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Catholic, Protestant and Jewish churchmen have voiced approval of the selection of the former Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini, archbishop of Milan, as the successor of Pope John XXIII.

The Rev. Dr. Douglas Horton, retired dean of Harvard Divinity School, who was a Protestant observer at the Vatican Council, said at Randolph, N.H., it was "an excellent choice. He is an outstanding man and I have no doubt now that the Vatican Council will go on as planned."

Deep Gratification

The Rev. Dr. Roy G. Ross, general secretary of the National Council of Churches: "The speedy election of a new spiritual head of the Roman Catholic Church will bring deep gratification to both Roman Catholic and non-Catholics throughout the world."

The Rev. Dr. Forrest L. Knapp, general secretary of the Massachusetts Council of Churches: "I rejoice in the election of a Pope who may be expected to carry forward the liberal policies of John XXIII."

The Rev. Kenneth A. Roadarmel, general secretary of New York Council of Churches: "It is good to know that the forward step in interfaith relationships under Pope John will, it would appear, continue and mature with significant results in this world of ours, which so badly needs spiritual undergirding."

Baptists' Congratulation

The Rev. Edwin H. Tuller, general secretary of the American Baptist Convention: "American Baptists congratulate the Catholic world on the selection of a Pope. It is our hope and prayer that he may continue to open up avenues of communication into the rest of Christendom as did his predecessor."

Synagogue Council of America: "The American Jewish religious community extends its greetings to you (the new Pope). We pray that your reign will be crowned with the aspirations of mankind for peace, brotherhood and amity."

Board to Review Proposed Merger Of Two Railroads

HARRISBURG (AP)—A special computer study indicates Pennsylvania will suffer some economic damage from the proposed merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads.

The $50,000 study, which simulated economic conditions resulting from the merger, found the move would cause small harm to the Commonwealth's industrial development potential as compared with surrounding states.

It also held that the employment picture in the state would suffer if the merger is carried out as presently envisioned.

The study made by the University of Pittsburgh under a grant from the State Planning Board, was released Friday by the Attorney General's Office.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Alan M. Ruben presented a copy of the study to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Conclusions reached in the report included:

"The merger would result in even greater financial savings and economies to the railroads than they have estimated. However, the savings are a short term palliative. The railroads will have to become competitive in their rates with truck, pipe line and barge freight transport."

"Actual operations of the merged system would not be exactly as represented by the railroads in their testimony before the Interstate Commerce Commission."

—Many of the proposed routes chosen by the railroads could proceed through Pennsylvania instead of New York.

The Planning Board and cabinet members will study the report to recommend to Gov. Scranton what position the state should take on the proposed merger.
